

Musicians Raise Awareness About Plastic Bottle Landfill Ban

By NBC17 3 weeks, 3 days ago

Musicians are going on tour across North Carolina to raise awareness about the new plastic bottle landfill ban.

In preparation of the ban going into effect Oct. 1, RE3.org is hosting a “BANned” Tour across the state. The tour will bring information on the plastic bottle landfill ban to numerous local music venues and coffee shops in the upcoming months.

The tour will kickoff in Raleigh at N.C. State University’s Fall Fest, featuring country music stars Josh Gracin and Chuck Wicks.

The show is on N.C. State’s Lee Field on Friday starting at 5:45 p.m.

Admission is free for N.C. State students and $25 for general admission.

The second stop in the Triangle is in Durham, with musical performances by Panda Force, Blare Crimmins and the Hookers, and Cobart and the Hired Guns.

This show is on Saturday starting at 10 p.m, at The Pinhook located at 117 W. Main St. in Durham. Admission is $2 for non-members.

More tour dates will be added soon.

You can go to RE3.org’s website for more information. You can also track the BANned tour by visiting RE3.org’s Facebook page.

For more information on banned items, please contact DPPEA at (919) 715-6500 or (800) 763-0136. You can also click here.